Absent: Directors Margaret Abe-Koga, David Hudson, and Brad Wagenknecht.

2. BAY AREA MODEL SOLAR ORDINANCE PROJECT (OUT OF ORDER, ITEM 5)

Henry Hilken, Director of Planning and Climate Protection, introduced Yvette DiCarlo, Advanced Projects Advisor, who gave the staff presentation Bay Area Model Ordinance Project, including: today’s overview; why rooftop solar, why now; solar initiatives in California; solar energy in the Bay Area; the Model Solar Ordinance Project; regional partners; stakeholder input; supporting toolkit (contents, benefits, launch); and next steps.

NOTED PRESENT: Director Rice was noted present at 9:46 a.m., and Director Ross was noted present at 9:49 a.m.

Public Comments:

Public comments were given by Jed Holtzman, 350 Bay Area, David McCoard, Sierra Club; and Janet Stromberg, City of Berkeley Energy Commission.

Committee Comments:

The Committee and staff discussed the status of the first draft; the contents of the user guide; overproduction of solar energy in California and subsequent negative wholesale electricity prices; projected shifts in the correlation between wholesale availability and demand; the cost-effectiveness study commissioned by PG&E to monitor installation capacity and grid reliability for this ordinance; the feasibility of adding a provision for energy storage into the ordinance; the anticipated timelines for ordinance adoption and the toolkit launch; how local government ordinances that exceed the State’s Title 24 building standard must be approved by the California Energy Commission; the District’s lack of authority to impose regional residential building code regulations on jurisdictions, and why a model ordinance is the appropriate approach to implement solar power; the feasibility of creating a regional “initiative” at the county level in the Bay Area to accelerate the mandatory implementation of solar power, and which would be the appropriate regional agency to coordinate a coalition of cities to support that initiative; the feasibility of adding a provision for rooftop solar thermal capture, and the District’s current coordination with an organization that has developed a model solar thermal ordinance; the types of residences that are eligible for this ordinance; the need for additional public outreach regarding existing tax incentives and for new incentives for residents; and how the installation of new ready-to-use electric vehicle chargers would require an entirely separate model ordinance.

Committee Action:

None; receive and file.

3. APPROVAL OF THE MINUTES OF MAY 18, 2017

Public Comments:

No requests received.

Committee Comments:

ABSENT: Abe-Koga, Hudson, and Wagenknecht.

6. COMMITTEE MEMBER COMMENTS / OTHER BUSINESS

Vice Chair Sinks asked for staff’s reaction to the Governor’s signing AB 398, which extends the Cap and Trade Program to 2030. The Committee and staff discussed the District’s unsuccessful attempts to amend AB398 (E. Garcia) and AB617 (C. Garcia); the preemption of local air district authority to regulate greenhouse gases and carbon dioxide from stationary sources the under Cap and Trade program; the District’s concern about additional air monitoring program efforts and cost recovery; the joint efforts of the local Air District Board members who also serve as California Air Resources Board members, to advocate for funding for local Air Districts; the fact that the District is not precluded from implementing criteria pollutant and toxic regulations that have GHG reduction co-benefits; and staff’s appreciation of Tom Addison, Senior Policy Advisor.

Re: Climate Protection Grant Program

RECOMMENDED ACTION

None; receive and file.

BACKGROUND

On April 19, 2017, the Board of Directors adopted Spare the Air – Cool the Climate, the Air District’s 2017 Clean Air Plan (2017 Plan). The 2017 Plan highlights the need to protect the climate by transitioning to a “post-carbon” economy in the Bay Area by 2050, and describes a comprehensive regional climate protection strategy to put us on a pathway to achieve that vision.

DISCUSSION

To successfully implement the regional climate protection strategy, the Air District will need to collaborate with a wide range of stakeholders, including cities, counties, and other local agencies throughout the region. Grant funding is one of the key tools that the Air District can employ to facilitate this collaboration. Climate grants that the Air District awarded in 2007 demonstrate how a well-designed grant program can advance climate protection efforts in the Bay Area. For example, this early round of climate grants helped to catalyze the creation and expansion of ground-breaking local programs such as the BerkeleyFirst PACE (Property Assessed Clean Energy) program and Community Choice Energy programs; these programs are now an important element of climate action programs in many Bay Area jurisdictions.

The Board of Directors approved $4.5 million in the Fiscal Year Ending (FYE) 2018 budget for a new Climate Protection Grant Program to help implement the 2017 Plan, as well as local climate action plans. Staff is working to develop the structure and parameters of the new climate grant program, and has been meeting with stakeholders to receive their ideas and input.

Staff will brief the Committee on progress in developing the new climate grant program, including the goals of the program, potential priorities and criteria to be used in selecting projects, feedback received from stakeholders, and next steps to develop and launch the program. Based on input from the Committee, staff will develop draft program guidelines that will be presented to the Committee and the Board for review and approval later this fall.

BUDGET CONSIDERATION/FINANCIAL IMPACT

Funding for the Climate Protection Grant Program is included in the FYE 2018 budget.

Re: Update on the Air District's Basin-Wide Methane Strategy

RECOMMENDED ACTION

None; receive and file.

BACKGROUND

The latest science has underscored the need to reduce emissions of short-lived greenhouses gases (GHG) in order to avoid the worse impacts of climate change (IPCC, 2014). Methane (CH<sub>4</sub>) is a potent but short-lived GHG. It is 86 times more potent than carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) when compared on a 20-year time horizon and it has a much shorter atmospheric lifespan of 12 years (vs. 20 – 200 years for CO<sub>2</sub>) (IPCC, 2014). Due to these factors, actions to reduce methane emissions can provide significant and immediate climate benefits while CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are steadily reduced to achieve long-term climate stability. Curbing methane emissions would also reduce emissions of its co-pollutants, which can include key climate, criteria and toxic pollutants, resulting in improvements to public health and further climate benefits.

In recognition of these benefits, the Air Resources Board (ARB) adopted a short-lived climate pollutant (SLCP) reduction strategy for the State of California in March 2017. The strategy addresses emissions of methane (and other SLCPs) not covered by ARB's Cap-and-Trade program. The SLCP Strategy was developed to help the State achieve its goal of reducing methane (and other SLCP) emissions 40% by the year 2030, set by SB 1383. In the document, ARB emphasizes the critical role that air districts can play in the success of the State's strategy by implementing short-lived climate pollutant emission reduction strategies in their own jurisdictions.

Methane is the second leading GHG in the Bay Area Air District. In 2015, sources in the district emitted an estimated 10 million metric tons of CO<sub>2</sub> equivalent (MMT CO<sub>2</sub>e), about 10 percent of the GHG inventory. According to a recent study commissioned by the Air District to evaluate its methane inventory (Fischer and Jeong, 2016), three source categories represent approximately 84 percent of these emissions. These categories are mainly related to human activities; landfills are the largest source by far, accounting for 53 percent of these emissions, followed by livestock (16 percent) and natural gas production and distribution (15 percent). These emissions estimates carry a large uncertainty (50 percent or more), consistent with a recent study that suggests that methane emissions in the Air District's "bottom-up" inventory are 1.5 – 2 times lower than expected from top-down measurements (Fairley and Fischer, 2015). This “methane gap” has been repeatedly observed for the U.S. and California regions, where top-down observations that account for ambient methane concentrations suggest that there are large, unaccounted methane emissions in bottom-up inventories.

Given the importance and potential co-benefits of controlling methane, the Air District has included a comprehensive basin-wide Methane Strategy (measure SS16) as part of its 2017 Clean Air Plan.

DISCUSSION

The Methane Strategy seeks to better quantify and reduce emissions of methane, and its co-pollutants, from all sources throughout the Air District, in support of ARB’s methane reduction goals. The Methane Strategy will accomplish these objectives by combining research, rulemaking, collaborations with state agencies, and other efforts such as incentive programs.

Elements of this strategy will include: 1) intensifying efforts to improve the Air District’s methane emissions inventory, 2) developing a rule to prohibit significant methane leaks throughout the district as a backstop while source-specific rules are developed, 3) collaborating with state agencies on their methane rules under development, 4) identifying cost effective and technically feasible methane emissions reduction opportunities throughout the Bay Area, and 5) considering the removal of methane exemptions from existing Air District rules when appropriate.

Staff will present an update on the Methane Strategy efforts, including methane research initiatives and the highest priority rules under development.

BUDGET CONSIDERATION/FINANCIAL IMPACT

None, activities accounted for in approved budget.
